Lets spell it all out in the title, but not NIST

Ok, going live in just a few.

Are we sticking with this title:
NIST's Role and Activities Relative to the PQC WH Memo
(maybe spell out White House?)

Thanks Thelma

Fonts of text are "set". We don't change them (except for headings) so not sure why it looks bigger to you on this one.

Moved the top section to a blue box.

For some reason the font all looks bigger than usual. Can we reduce it a little? Maybe we put the top section in a blue callout to break it up a bit?

The policy is not NLT 2035 as of now so I don't want to say that. Lets change need to should.

A: Transition your most important items to encrypt (and remember that the most important information you need to encrypt should be replaced no later than 2035)! This is still far away—but it's important to start planning, prioritizing, and budgeting now.

Maybe this? Still seems confusing to me since it sounds like we're telling people to only worry about the really important stuff... but they can put off the rest.

I want to noodle that one also. The NSM states a soft requirement for “goal of mitigating as much as is feasible by 2025” so I think we might need to change “everything” to something more like “your most important information”.

Hey Matt,

Updates, attached. Please let me know if you approve this version.

Also copying Thelma here to see if she could start to get this built out for us in draft form on the website. Thelma – this would either live on the <https://www.nist.gov/cryptography> page or hang off of it in some way. This content is related to NIST's role and activities relative to the PQC WH Memo.

Thanks,

Kristina

PML is good with us putting this up and I gave them the option to add in later as we will also be doing updates as we complete tasks.
